USA NETWORKS, INC. ANNOUNCES AGREEMENT TO PURCHASE
CONTROLLING STAKE IN EXPEDIA,
BECOMING A LEADER IN INTERACTIVE TRAVEL

USA ALSO AGREES TO ACQUIRE NATIONAL LEISURE GROUP AND ANNOUNCES LAUNCH OF THE USA TRAVEL CHANNEL

Los Angeles, CA - July 16, 2001 - USA Networks, Inc. (NASDAQ: USAI) announced today an agreement to acquire a controlling interest in Expedia, Inc. (NASDAQ: EXPE), a leading online travel agency, through the purchase of up to 37.5 million shares, approximately 75% of the currently outstanding shares. Microsoft has agreed to transfer all of its 33.7 million shares and warrants in Expedia(R), subject to pro-ration. USA also announced today an agreement to acquire National Leisure Group, Inc., the foremost online cruise and vacation package agency. In addition, USA said it would launch the USA Travel Channel, a new cable television program service that will offer a full range of travel products. Upon completion of the proposed transactions, USA will generate approximately $4 billion in annual gross travel bookings, becoming the new leader in interactive travel.

These acquisitions, in addition to USA's interest in the Hotel Reservations Network (NASDAQ: ROOM), will form the USA Travel Group portfolio of companies, which collectively handled approximately 16% of the $14 billion worth of online travel transactions in 2000. For the calendar year 2001, the group is expected to generate approximately $4 billion in gross bookings. In calendar year 2002, gross bookings are expected to grow by approximately 40%. The companies had virtually no debt and a combined cash balance of approximately $340 million as of March 31, 2001.

Expedia and NLG will expand USA's estimated share of retail transactions conducted over the Internet and via television in the United States from 5%, to approximately 9% in 2001. Expedia and NLG anticipate leveraging USA's massive transactional infrastructure which is expected to process 1 billion minutes of inbound customer calls, 83 million orders, and ship 40 million items over the next twelve months. The newly combined USA database of 33 million customers will include purchasers of everything from live music event tickets - to a wide array of home products - to cutting edge electronics - to complex travel packages, and are all products available from USA through either a television or computer screen.

"For some time we have believed travel to be a key building block in offering goods and services in interactive formats. These announcements make that belief a reality: Expedia and its superb management, led by Richard Barton, will be at the heart of our activities. Together with the National Leisure Group and its leading array of travel packages, and the development of a broad-based commerce travel channel, I can't think of a better knitting together of the convergence of entertainment, information and direct selling," said Barry Diller, Chairman and CEO, USA.

EXPEDIA

Known for its technology and its comprehensive, integrated travel services, Expedia is a leading full service online travel agency with dedicated sites in the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, Germany and soon France. Expedia.com, now the seventh largest travel agency in the United States, on or off-line, according to TRAVEL WEEKLY, first launched in 1996. Expedia, Inc. became a separately traded public company through its Initial Public Offering in 1999. Prior to its IPO, Expedia, Inc. was a wholly owned subsidiary of Microsoft.

Barry Diller will become Chairman of Expedia. Richard Barton will continue in his role as President and CEO of Expedia. "By joining USA Networks, we access an unrivaled array of media, direct selling and travel assets that will enable us to continue the strong growth momentum we currently carry," said Mr. Barton. "Expedia will be ideally positioned to extend its reach both online and on television."

"This is a great deal for all three companies involved and most importantly for consumers," said Rick Belluzzo, President and Chief Operating Officer, Microsoft Corporation. "Expedia will continue to be a strategic partner for MSN and Microsoft, while USA Networks can provide the breadth and depth in the travel and media industries that will help spur Expedia's future growth. This means Expedia can continue to provide the leading travel services they are known for to consumers and suppliers worldwide."

Under the terms of the definitive agreement, Expedia shareholders will have the option to elect to exchange in a tax-free merger transaction each Expedia share for:

- o $17.50 in USA Common Stock (subject to a collar between $23 and $31 per USA share);
- o between 0.3873 and 0.4524 of a 7-year warrant to acquire shares of USA Common Stock at an exercise price of $35.10 per USA Common Stock share, with the exact number of warrants depending on the USA Common Stock price in a pricing period ending two business days before the Expedia shareholder meeting. If the average USA Common Stock price in the pricing period is $27, each exchanging shareholder will receive 0.4176 of such warrants for each Expedia share exchanged; and
- o 0.35 of a share of a new series of USA Convertible Redeemable Preferred Stock, with a $50 face value.

Expedia shareholders who do not elect to exchange their shares for USA securities will retain their Expedia shares and receive for each Expedia share held 0.1920 of a new Expedia warrant with a seven-year term and an exercise price of $52 per share.

If holders of more than 37.5 million Expedia shares elect the USA consideration, there will be a pro rata reduction among all of those electing shareholders. Microsoft, the majority shareholder of Expedia, has agreed to exchange all of its 33.7 million Expedia shares and warrants for the USA consideration, subject to pro-rata. As a part of the transaction, Expedia will create a new class of high-vote shares, which USA will receive from Expedia shareholders electing the USA consideration.

At closing of the transaction, USA will own 67% to 75% of the outstanding equity and over 90% of the voting interest in Expedia, depending on the number of Expedia shares exchanged for the USA securities, with the remaining Expedia equity held by the public and potentially Microsoft, depending on pro-ration. Microsoft will own approximately 3% to 5% of USA equity, depending on pro-ration.

USA will also contribute to Expedia $75 million in media time over five years and an option to participate in the newly started USA Travel Channel.

As outlined above, the package of securities received by Expedia shareholders who exchange their shares for USA securities will consist of:

- o 0.5645 to 0.7609 USA shares valued at $17.50 if USA closes within the collar range of $23 to $31 per USA share;
- o between 0.3873 and 0.4524 (subject to a collar between $25.75 and $28.25 per USA share at a pricing period before closing) new USA warrants with a 7-year term and at an exercise price of $35.10 per USA Common Stock share; and
- o 0.35 shares of a new series of Convertible Redeemable Preferred Stock with a $50 face value, 1.99% annual dividend, an initial exercise price of $33.75 (which may be adjusted downwards per the paragraph below), a 20-year term and a 10-year hard no call provision. The USA Preferred can be put to USA at face value plus accrued and unpaid dividends in years 5, 7, 10 and 15. Any dividends, puts or calls can be paid in cash or USA common stock, at USA's sole election.

The conversion price of the USA preferred will start at $33.75, and will decrease according to a set formula (as more fully described in the transaction agreements) to the extent that USA's average closing price 10 days prior to conversion is greater than $35.10. The rate of decrease in the conversion price will decrease as USA's stock price increases.

For example, at the following USA stock prices, the conversion price of the USA preferred will be:

USA	Conversion Price
$35.10	$33.75
$40	$32.46
$50	$30.78
$75	$28.80
$100	$27.89

Completion of the transaction is subject to customary conditions, including approval of Expedia shareholders. Microsoft, now Expedia's controlling shareholder, has agreed to vote all its Expedia shares in favor of these transactions. It is expected that the transaction will close by year-end.

Separately, Expedia, Inc. today announced it expects to report that, on a net basis, revenue for its fourth quarter of fiscal 2001, ended June 30, more than doubled over the year-earlier quarter and rose approximately 37% over the third quarter. Gross bookings rose to $802 million, up 78% year-over-year and up 19% from the third quarter.

Expedia also expects to report income before non-cash items of $12 million to $14 million, or $0.24 to $0.29 per basic share and $0.20 to $0.23 per diluted share, for the June quarter, which is substantially above earlier guidance and analyst estimates. On a GAAP basis, Expedia expects the net loss to be $5.5 million to $7.5 million, or a loss of $0.11 to $0.15 per basic share. The per share amounts are calculated using an average outstanding basic share count for the quarter of 49 million and average diluted shares of 61 million.

NATIONAL LEISURE GROUP

USA has also agreed to acquire National Leisure Group, Inc. (NLG), a leading provider of technology and fulfillment services to world class affiliate partners engaged in the sale of vacation packages and cruises. NLG has long-term affiliate agreements under which it sells vacation packages and cruises through its multi-channel marketing activities (retail, direct marketing, television, and internet). NLG's affiliates range from leading travel web sites including Expedia.com to major offline retail partners. NLG's 2001 gross bookings growth of over 100% make it one of the fastest growing distributors in the leisure travel industry. Terms of the transaction were not disclosed. Aaron Gowell, President, will continue in that role.

"USA brings National Leisure Group a wealth of opportunity to accelerate our pace of growth, broaden into new areas and continue investing in the best technology platform in the industry for the sale of high margin cruise and vacation packages," said Mr. Gowell. "Contributing our industry leading technology and services to the USA Travel Group, we expect the combination to deliver extraordinary growth for USA shareholders and deliver an even more compelling product to our network of affiliates."

USA TRAVEL CHANNEL

With Expedia as its online foundation and NLG's contribution of unparalleled vacation and cruise packages and the service infrastructure to manage travel sales, USA's Travel Group will launch the USA Travel Channel, completing USA's multi-platform approach to sales in the travel industry. The digital television commerce channel, expected to launch this year, will be produced by 24-year electronic retailing experts at the Home Shopping Network and will be supported by both the Entertainment and Interactive Groups within USA Networks, Inc. USA Cable's production and storytelling skills, HSN's merchandising expertise, Precision Response Corporation's contact centers and Ticketmaster and Citysearch's depth of local information and transaction capabilities will all contribute to the channel. More than just an entertainment and information vehicle, the USA Travel Channel will uniquely bring destinations to life, as all travel packages viewed will instantly be available for purchase.

HOTEL RESERVATIONS NETWORK

In addition to becoming the instant leader in interactive travel, through USA's majority stake in the Hotel Reservations Network, the Travel Group will have access to one of the strongest stables of hotel rooms available for sale at discount prices. HRN is a leading provider of discount hotel rooms, offering accommodations at more than 3,000 properties worldwide, as well as access to vacation rental properties, including condominiums, vacation timeshare properties and other managed vacation properties. HRN's services are available through multiple distribution channels including www.hoteldiscount.com, www.180096hotel.com, www.condosaver.com, and www.travelnow.com, its toll-free 24x7 phone number, and over 18,600 Internet and call center affiliates.

"Through our portfolio of interactive commerce companies and the capabilities within, we are confident we have the most diverse, healthy and robust industry examples of convergence in the key categories of travel and access. At this point these are more than killer applications, they are accomplishments which improve the reality of real interactive businesses, in proven segments with tangible results," said Jon Miller, President and CEO, USA Information and Services. "These businesses thrive through their autonomy as well as their place in this world-leading group."
